READ THIS, NOT THAT

Domestic Violence encompasses many parts of an individuals. Advocates often see mental health, homelessness, addiction and childhood trauma playing a role in clients that are served. An activity that can be suggested to individuals and families is reading. Through reading, individuals can learn more about the correlation between parts of our lives and domestic violence. Educational or leisure reading is a great way to continue healing. Below is a compiled list of suggested reads. Trigger Warning: Please read with precaution, some of the materials may include stories on domestic violence and sexual assault.
